

We Are Cuba! How a Revolutionary People Have Survived in a Post-Soviet World

Tuesday 24 November 2020, 5:00pm (GMT)

Hosted by the Latin America and Caribbean Centre (LACC) of the London School of Economics

Please join us online next Tuesday 24 November at 5pm for this event - ostensibly a launch for my new book, "We Are Cuba! How a Revolutionary People Have Survived in a Post-Soviet World", (Yale University Press, 2020) <https://yalebooks.co.uk/display.asp?k=9780300230031>.

The event will also hear from Cuba scholars Professor William Leogrande (American University) and Dr Emily Morris (UCL). The panel will evaluate the impact of the US elections on US-Cuba relations, discuss the economic difficulties the country faces, largely as a result of increased US sanctions, assess recent economic reforms, and reflect on Cuba's response to the Covid-19 pandemic at home and abroad.

Cuba's Ambassador to the UK, Her Excellency Bárbara Montalvo Álvarez, will also be in attendance. Registration is free: <https://lse.zoom.us/meeting/register/tZckfumprj0vEtaglsJaAi0-7flUSHG9rVV5>

More info here: <https://www.lse.ac.uk/lacc/events/we-are-cuba-how-a-revolutionary-people-have-survived-in-a-post-soviet-world>

More info here: <https://www.lse.ac.uk/lacc/events/we-are-cuba-how-a-revolutionary-people-have-survived-in-a-post-soviet-world>